STATE HIGHWAY CONFERENCE HEARS:

Boom In N.C. Traffic Centers To Create Problems

BY JAY PETERS

RALEIGH—One of the major issues to be discussed at the State Highway Conference here today is the increase in traffic centers in the state. This year alone, the state has built 10 new highways, and the number of vehicles on the roads has increased by 15%. This is causing problems for the highways department, which is trying to keep up with the increase in traffic.

The conference, which is attended by state highway officials and representatives of the transportation industry, is being held in conjunction with the annual meeting of the North Carolina Association of Counties.

Rains Close Schools Early, Bring Livestock Warnings

Storms Drench Carolinas

Heavy rains fell Friday in coastal areas of South Carolina, Friday and Saturday, causing flooding near Columbia, S.C., to force beaches to close temporarily, and closing schools early in the Palmetto State.

In Charlotte, the rains continued throughout the day, but by Saturday morning, the heavy downpour had ended. The city's water system was overwhelmed by the deluge, causing widespread flooding and street closures.

The Charlotte Observer reported that several schools in the area were closed early due to the storm. The city's emergency management agency issued warnings about flooding and recommended that residents stay off the roads and stay indoors.

In other news, the Klan visited a protest by picking up and delivering goods. The Klan, a hate group, was established in 1915 to suppress African Americans.

A 15-year-old girl was killed Tuesday when she was struck by a bus while crossing a street.

The incident occurred on a busy street in the city's downtown area. The girl, who was crossing the street, was struck by a bus and killed on the spot.

The driver of the bus, a 40-year-old man, was arrested and charged with vehicular homicide.

Another headline read, Rains Dampering Morale Of City Garbage Collectors

Heavy rains fell in Charlotte, causing difficulties for city garbage collectors.

The rain made it difficult for collectors to complete their routes, and the city had to reschedule some collections.

In other news, the Charlotte Observer reported that the city's trash collection system was struggling to keep up with the increased volume of garbage.

The city has announced plans to increase the number of trash trucks to help meet the demand, but some residents are concerned about the impact on traffic and the environment.

Democrats Politick
Ervin Speaks; Candidates Pump Hands

By JAY BELL
PRESIDENTIAL politics are a washout in North Carolina. The campaign season has ended, the candidates have retired to their winter homes, and the only political excitement comes from the state's three senators.

In a state like North Carolina, where there are no major cities, no big newspapers, and where the people are not interested in politics, it is a wonder that the candidates can get any votes at all.

However, in a state like North Carolina, where there are no major cities, no big newspapers, and where the people are not interested in politics, it is a wonder that the candidates can get any votes at all.

Ervin, the Democratic candidate, is leading in the polls, but he is not expected to win. The Republicans have a chance to win, but they are not expected to do so.

In conclusion, the political climate in North Carolina is not promising for either the Democrats or the Republicans. The only hope is that the next election will bring a change of leadership.

WASHINGTON -- President Johnson presented his eleventh-hour offer of a compromise plan Thursday and called the Democratic Congress to order in a bid for a last-minute solution to the crucial wheat surplus problem that he has been in Congress.

"I will propose an amendment that, I think, will provide a reasonable solution," Johnson said.

The House, which had been adjourned until 1 p.m. today, was called back to order by House Speaker Sam Rayburn. The Senate was also in session.

Johnson's offer came in an effort to stave off a possible showdown with the Senate over the wheat surplus problem.

The House had earlier approved a bill to increase the price paid for wheat, but the Senate had rejected it.

Johnson's compromise plan involves a hybrid of the two bills, with the Senate's version taking precedence in the event of a deadlock.

The plan includes a provision for the government to purchase wheat at a price of $2.50 a bushel, but it also includes a provision for the government to sell wheat at a price of $1.50 a bushel, which is closer to the Senate's version.

Johnson said he would not sign any bill that did not include the Senate's version of the wheat surplus plan.

"We have been working on this problem for months," Johnson said. "We have been working with the Senate and the House, and we have been working with the American people. We have been working with the farmers, and we have been working with the processors.

"And we have been working with the government, and we have been working with the people of this country. And we have been working with the president of the United States, and we have been working with the Congress of the United States. And we have been working with the American people, and we have been working with the Congress of the United States.

Let's Give Ike Discretion
Over Cuba's Sugar Quotas

Despite extreme protests by Cuba's Castro, the \textit{New York Times} reports that the U.S. government is likely to grant Cuba an additional 10,000 tons of sugar. This decision is in line with the president's discretion over economic policy. The effect of this action on the Cuban sugar industry is uncertain, but it is expected to have a positive impact on the U.S. sugar market.

The Stores Must Solve This One

Although no question of public policy or inconvenience is involved, the issue posed by Negro college students at a number of institutions in the Carolinas is of both theory and practical importance. In the absence of laws that would prevent or curtail the activities of these students in any way, some of the colleges and universities in North Carolina are free to serve or not to serve the Negro student, as they see fit. They could, if they so elected, serve only a fraction of the Negro college students in the state, and deny service to everyone else.

But the refusal of a variety of stores who contend that they are in no way discriminating against Negro students is another matter. The issue is one of whether the Negro college student is entitled to the same treatment as any other student regardless of race.

Nikita Dusts Off An Old Script

Twice in recent years Nikita Khrushchev has revisited this theme in his speeches, and twice in recent years the West has tried to exploit it as a weapon in the Cold War. Now the Soviet leader has revisited the theme again, and the West has once more found it useful as a propaganda tool.

Despite his earlier statements, Khrushchev has now acknowledged that the United States is not justified in using the threat of force to compel the Soviet Union to recognize the status quo in Europe. He has also stated that the Soviet Union is willing to discuss the question of Germany with the United States, but that the United States must first make clear its intentions.

Behind the High Cost of Drugs

The price of prescription drugs is high and rising. The cost of medication is a major expense for many families, and the high cost of prescription drugs is causing concern. The average American spends over $2,000 per year on prescription drugs, and this cost is expected to increase in the future.

SUMMIT OBSTACLE

Big Policy Gap' On W. Germany

Despite the recent controversy surrounding the possibility of a German unity response, there is no imminent danger of a policy gap in Western Germany. The German government has been consistently supportive of the United States, and there is no indication that this support will change in the near future.

Meanwhile, representatives of the Western powers met in Paris last week to discuss the problem of European unity. The meeting was attended by representatives from the United States, Great Britain, France, and Germany. The discussions were focused on the issue of how to achieve a united Europe, and the representatives agreed that there is a need for a more concerted effort to achieve this goal.

IKE's Inspects Cape Canaveral
CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — President Eisenhower inspected the Cape Canaveral military base here today, and was given a firsthand look at what the United States is doing in the field of space. The visit was made as part of the president's inspection tour of the United States.

The inspection included a tour of the Cape Canaveral missile range, where several missiles were on display. Eisenhower was shown the various launch pads and control centers, and he watched a live demonstration of a missile launch.

During his visit, the president met with several key military officials, including General Wernher von Braun, the head of the U.S. space program. The meeting lasted for about an hour, and it was described as being "very friendly and cordial." Eisenhower was given a tour of the facilities, and he was shown the various types of missiles that are being developed.

The president was impressed with what he saw, and he praised the military for their work in space exploration. He told von Braun that he was "proud of what you're doing." Eisenhower also said that he believed that space exploration was "vital to the future of our nation."

CHICAGO EXCHANGE

WASHINGTON, D.C. (AP) - The United States and the Soviet Union signed an agreement on Saturday, 16th, marking the Soviet Union's entry into World War II.

The signing of the accord marks a significant step toward ending the global conflict.

The agreement includes a mutual guarantee of mutual assistance, as well as provisions for the exchange of shipments to aid each other in the war effort.

The United States and the Soviet Union have a history of cooperation in times of crisis, and this agreement is a testament to their commitment to working together for the good of humanity.

After signing, the representatives exchanged a series of handshakes and hugs, symbolizing the solidarity between the two nations.

Surprise Pickup Would Be Halted

Revised Story By Paul A. Smith

WASHINGTON, D.C. (AP) - A surprise pickup of old cars would be halted under a bill that would pay on-dip prices for vehicles that were taken off the market.

The bill would provide a new incentive for dealers to remove old cars from the market, reducing the number of vehicles on the road.

The legislation was introduced to address the environmental impact of old cars and to encourage the use of newer, more fuel-efficient models.

DEBATE ON ITS FUNCTION DIVIDES DIRECTORS

Why Was Museum Director James Manley Fired?

By VICTOR McLENNY

Ever since the Charlotte Observer has been here, it has been a debate over the board of directors and the future of the museum. The board of directors, led by James Manley, has been under fire for several years due to budget cuts, poor management, and questionable decisions. The museum has struggled to attract visitors and has been forced to cut back on programs and exhibits. Manley, the director, has been accused of mismanaging the museum's money and not doing enough to promote the museum. The debate has reached a fever pitch, and it seems that the future of the museum is in question.

The students say that the cuts are unfair and will have a negative impact on the quality of the education they receive. They hope to have a meeting with the administration to discuss their concerns and find a solution.

Library Park Plan Gets New Impetus

By STAFF REPORT

The Charlotte Observer has reported that the library park plan is getting new impetus. The plan, which was first proposed a few years ago, has been in limbo due to budget constraints. However, recent developments have renewed interest in the project. The city has allocated funds for the project, and the city council has approved the plan. The park will be a great addition to the community and will provide a much-needed green space.

2 More Seek To Succeed Rep. Barden

Both announced their intentions to run for the seat now held by Edgewood's Robert N. Borden, who is retiring.

Simpkins, a young lawyer, is a Democrat from Wilson County, while Jesse, also a Democrat, is from Jones County.

Both agreed and said it was "inexcusable" that the state of North Carolina has not had a Democratic senator in the 14 years Borden has held the seat.

Simpkins said he would support the "domestic policies of the Democratic party," while Jesse said he would work for "a strong" Democratic party in the state.

In a political climate where both parties are divided, Jesse said he would seek "the support of the people of North Carolina" in his bid for the Senate seat.

Borden, who is running for re-election, said he has "no plans" to retire from the Senate seat he has held for 14 years.

Reds May Sell Jets To Cuba
Russia, Willing, Mikoyan Says
BANGKOK — Secret talks in Moscow have apparently reached an impasse, but the discussions continue. In the meanwhile, the Reds are preparing to sell jets to Cuba.

Mikoyan, the top Soviet jet designer, has reportedly told Cuban officials that his country is willing to sell them jets for military purposes.

The talks, which have been going on for several weeks, are said to have taken place in Moscow. Mikoyan, who is known for his work on Soviet jet aircraft, has reportedly told Cuban officials that his country is willing to sell them jets for military purposes.

The jets are said to be similar to those used by the Soviet Union in its conflicts with other countries, and are believed to be capable of speeds well over Mach 2.
